People in the workplace communicate a message with their image every day!

Finally, there is a professional who can address the embarrassing ways in which people dress...
SO YOU WON'T HAVE TO!

Dynamic Programs!

Can you pass a person in the hallway and know their career goals?

Of course you can! Are your people aware of the message their appearance sends to those who are capable of promoting them or propelling them forward in their chosen profession?

Linda Thomas provides educational programs to help men and women learn how to dress in clothes that fit the body they have today. Your employee's image should reflect self-confidence, inspire the respect of other professionals, and reassure clients and co-workers that they are committed to the company's goals.

Your staff will learn to:

- Look confident
- Gain influence
- Command respect
- Dress appropriately
- Improve their outlook
- Increase productivity
- Be more self-aware

They will also receive:

- Up-to-date research
- Educational materials
- An immediate call to action!

Breakthrough Programs!

The Competitive Edge: Professional Attire in Business
Wouldn't you like to be able to create the most dynamic and powerful appearance possible? Learn what you are doing right and what needs to be changed to give you the competitive edge. Through subtle wardrobe adjustments, discover confidence and energy, while gaining more respect from your clients and co-workers.

Appropriate Attire: Is it Time to Put the "Business" Back into Casual Dress Codes?
You may have noticed "Business Casualties" in your office or around your city. "Business Appropriate" is the term for lifting people out of casual confusion. Become more aware of how you can project authority and respect while retaining the benefits of comfort and convenience.

Color Me Promoted, Color Me a Leader, or Color Me Going-Nowhere
Discover how the colors you wear every day affect others and how they can support your business agenda for any day of the week. We all have a physiological response to color, particularly the color of clothes. Ensure you are eliciting the response you want, from the people in your sphere of influence.

The Language of Proportion: What Style Fits You Best Now
Are you aware of the current fashion trends and which of those look best on your body? Gain the information needed to update your wardrobe up-to-date and look your best. This realistic program will show the trends and discuss which styles will look best on your unique body.
